Meyer Burger

Hans Meyer founded a mechanical workshop in Hünibach-Eichbühl in early 1951. When Wilhelm Burger became co-owner in 1953, the company, which developed and produced machines for the watch industry, was renamed Meyer & Burger. In 1956 they built a new factory in nearby Steffisburg. From 1960 onwards, they mainly manufactured cut-off machines and a universal machine tool UW1. They were located in Hilterfingen until 1998.

Meyer Burger modules

Meyer Burger PV modules are available in a variety of configurations, including the Black, White and Glass series, each designed to meet specific aesthetic and performance requirements. Meyer Burger
